collection of long-lost Egyptian manuscripts was presented to the Church of Jesus Christ Latter-day Saints Monday, the papyrus fragments, long believed to have been destroyed by the Chicago fire of 1871, were sent to President N. Eldon of the First Presidency.

The collection, which came from the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York,

LETTER INCLUDED

According to the Deseret News, a letter accompanied the manuscripts, certifying that the scribe had been the property of Smith, first president of the Church. The letter was signed Emma Smith Bid a man, of the Prophet, and his name was dated May 26, among the collection is a manuscript identified as the original document from which Smith copied the drawings known as "Facsimile No. 2" of the Pearl of Great any other papyri once in the possession of the Prophet are included in the museum's presentation.

JOSEPH SMITH

Smith originally acted as the scribe, along with Egyptian mummies, in 1835. His death in 1844, the unities and manuscripts were by his widow. In the Chicago fire of 1871, at least two of the mummies were destroyed. It has been generally assumed that documents were also burned at that time.

They were accidentally discovered, however, by Dr. Aziz Aya, retired director of the Faculty of Middle East

"Great discoveries are always accidental, and this was accidental too," said Atiya, a member of the Coptic Orthodox Church. "I have made many discoveries in many places, but this is the one I'm most proud of."

The papyrus documents will be taken to Salt Lake City for further study and research.

Army ROTC Unit To Be Established

An Army ROTC unit will be installed at BYU next fall, President Ernest L. Wilkinson announced Monday.

The addition will give BYU two ROTC organizations. The Air Force ROTC unit, which currently enrolls 384 cadets, has been in operation on BYU campus since 1951 and will continue as a companion corps to the Army unit. Since its inception, the BYU Air Force ROTC has commissioned 736 officers.

High Officers Praise BYU

In a letter of notification to President Ernest L. Wilkinson, Stanley R. Resor, Secretary of the Army, stated:

"It is my distinct pleasure to congratulate you and inform you that Brigham Young University has been selected to host a Senior Division ROTC unit effective for enrollment of cadets at the beginning of the 1968-69 academic year.

"The Army ROTC program, offered at 262 colleges and universities, is the major source of officers for the Active Army and Reserve Components under normal conditions. We have continuing need for college trained officers in all disciplines.

CONTRIBUTIONS

"Brigham Young University, by participating in the Senior ROTC Program, will be making a lasting and valuable contribution to the security and well-being of our Nation by producing future military as well as future civilian leaders."

Col. Otis M. Plant, professor of Military Science at University of Utah, said BYU is one of only 15 colleges and universities out of 200 applicants chosen for units this year. He explained it is a five-year probationary program based on world conditions, production, and caliber.

liaison OFFICER

Col. Plant has been the Army representative and liaison officer between BYU and the Army on the BYU application.

No indication was given as to the size of the BYU unit. All ROTC units are limited by quota, but with the two ROTC organizations on campus, BYU additional students will receive opportunity to train for officers' commissions.

Col. Plant called the installation a great benefit to the community and estimated it will cost about $1 million to outfit a new department with uniforms, weapons, training aids, books, teaching equipment, and office equipment. He reported that the annual budget of the established unit of

JOHNSON REPLIES

President Johnson liked the turtle but still can't attend next year's BYU Homecoming.

Two weeks ago during a Save-the-Turtle campaign, Editor Jaron Summers mailed the Chief Executive a Homecoming invitation along with his turtle namesake which "beat a few governors" in this year's Homecoming Turtle Trot.

A bronze plaque has been placed in Rock Creek Park in Washington D.C., replete with an LBJ Special Assistant in a letter to Summers.

Week To Feature Creativity

Creativity in the home will be featured today as Women's Week swings into its second day.

The week, "designed for growth, understanding, and appreciation through awareness," will feature displays, panel discussions, and programs for the benefit of both males and females on the BYU campus.

Handwork, weaving, cake decorating and foods will be demonstrated today in the Step-

Down Lounge of the Wilkinson Center. Tonight MIA's will present a short program geared to the theme of Women's Week, "A Man and a Woman."

FASHION SHOW

Wednesday's schedule includes a fashion show from noon to 3 p.m. in the Smith Family Living Center. "Trousseau and You" will be presented at 7 p.m. in Room 394 of the Wilkinson Center. New products-wigs, fashions, foods and beauty-will be on display in the Step-down Lounge.

Other highlights of Women's Week include Thursday's forum with Woman of the Year Ettie Lee as speaker and Friday's pre-dance concert in the fieldhouse in addition to the Preference Ball that evening.

Answer...

(From President Wilkinson)

An editorial appearing in Monday's University with respect to insurance proposals contains a number of misstatements of fact which prompt me to make the following statement:

1. Unfortunately, materials that were sent out had to do both with a student health and accident program (to which the University itself was a party) and a life insurance program (to which the University was not a party). It was, therefore, proper to send out a letter using BYU envelopes for the approved program, but the other materials should not have been included in the same envelopes. It is not true, however, that the University letterheads were used. The University was reimbursed for all mailing expenses.

2. It was also unfortunate that the letter was signed by a representative of the insurance company, who purported to be the "BYU Student Health & Accident Administrator." He was never appointed by the University as such administrator, although he has actually been administering the plan for the insurance company.

3. The editorial also questions the financial standing of the insurance company involved. Although this company is relatively new, it operates in 49 states, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia; it has about $900,000,000 of insurance in force; and it is wholly-owned subsidiary of Continental Casualty Company, which has admitted assets of more than one billion dollars. We are informed by the State Insurance Commissioner that Continental Casualty Company is liable for all claims against the life insurance company in question. I understand that said company is included in Best's Manual for 1967 as a part of the Continental group, all of which are shown to have an A+ rating.

4. The editorial states that few, if any, life insurance programs are endorsed by educational institutions. However, we are informed that many universities in the country endorse for their students certain life insurance policies, and the particular policy that was here proposed by its agent has been endorsed by other universities in this state.

5. As a result of a great many inquiries from students and their parents for a life insurance program, many plans voluntarily submitted by various companies were considered and the company offering the lowest rate was informed that it could make its plan known to the students. However, it was not intended that there would be any mailing under University auspices.

6. The question of whether there are inconsistent applications of the no-solicitation rule on campus is being investigated.

ENEMY ACTION

The Stewart is not Dr. Stewart L. Grow, Sr., of the Political Science Dept., for whom I have the greatest respect and admiration. It is Stewart L. Grow, Jr., of the ASBYU Student Relations Office, for whom I have little of either.

"Once is happenstance. Twice is coincidence. The third time it's enemy action." This quote is to be found in a most noteworthy book by Ian Fleming. However, its message conveys exactly the idea behind this article.

SIX WEEKS

For six weeks now the Academics Office has been attempting, even valiantly attempting to arrange a debate between the College Republicans and the College Democrats. The team captain for the College Democrats, however, Grow, has proved most uncooperative.

At first, the debate topic was "Federal Spending." That was unacceptable to Grow, and so it was changed to "The Merits of the Democratic Party." Then a date was set.

Time grew short, and the Academics Office printed signs and made ready to blast the student body with publicity. But, as fate would have it, Mr. Grow was mysteriously called away to Idaho. He didn't find out about this trip until the night before the debate, and therefore could not notify the young man in the Academics Office until that late time.

Then they tried again. Another date and time were set. Publicity was again readied. A notice was printed in this newspaper giving the time and place. Posters were again printed. College Republicans made hurried phials to Washington for additional material. The tension mounted. Alas, again as fate would have it, the telephone of Academics Office intermediately rang again the night before. Grow regretted to inform us that his partner was in class till too late, and therefore this date would simply have to be postponed.

After two unsuccessful tempts to get this debate up, Academics Office, with member saying that he would rather not work with Grow anymore on the project gave up. But the College Republicans would not. This is what it will be either a debate or war.

"Once is happenstance. Twice is coincidence." So they are, seemingly at mere coincidence. However, the College Republican team has scheduled the Van Theater for this Thursday, 12:30 p.m. Their team will be present, ready to debate the given topic, "Resolved: That Federal Government's spending programs show poor economic sense and deserve reevaluation."

That is Thursday at 12:30. And I suppose if Mr. Grow is there, and since it IS the time, and absence would just be an indication of the failure of President Johnson to end the war.

Or better yet, a brief analysis of the lead in Utah's Democratic Party between Cal Ram and Phil Hansen. Yes, indeed, it is happenstance. Twice coincidence. But the third time, that's enemy action.

Student Hurt In Oregon

A BYU sophomore was believed to be in critical condition Monday night after an automobile accident near LeGrande, Ore. about 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

Harold W. Pease, a psychology major from Yakima, Wash., suffered severe internal injuries when the car he and three other BYU students occupied swerved out of control on a slick patch of ice and rammed into the rear of another moving vehicle ahead.

Julie Johansen, a freshman majoring in business from Mt. Pleasant, Utah; Pease's sister, Carolyn, a General Education freshman; and Paul Reynolds, a sophomore in music from Provo, were the other occupants—suffering minor injuries.

The four were enroute to BYU after the Thanksgiving holidays.

One of Pease's roommates, Craig Smith, talked with Pease's parents over the telephone Sunday night. According to Smith, one of Pease's kidneys had been removed, his spleen had been punctured, and he was suffering from other severe internal injuries.

Mrs. Blake Reynolds, 499 N. 600 E., told the University Monday night her son Paul was driving the car when it skidded and collided with another moving vehicle. She indicated there were no injuries in the other vehicle.

Both Paul Reynolds and Julie Johansen are expected to arrive early this morning on the bus.

Kemper Foundation Scholarships

Applications are being accepted this week for three $900 scholarships for students interested in pursuing careers in insurance administration.

Application deadline is Friday at noon. Materials may be obtained by going to B-138 Smoot Administration Bldg. Finalists will be interviewed by Dr. Charles W. Webster, executive director of the Kemper Foundation, according to Bruce L. Olson, chairman of Undergraduate Scholarships.

RENEWED ANNUALLY

Kemper scholars are not only able to renew their scholarships for each remaining year of undergraduate study and on year of graduate work but also are given the opportunity to gain experience in gainful employment in the insurance field during summer vacations. After graduation the foundation further assists the student in obtaining regular employment with a mutual insurance company.

Awards are granted on basis of academic ability, character, leadership, and professional promise in field of insurance administration.

LIBERAL ARTS

The Kemper Foundation especially interested in students who have good backgrounds in the liberal arts.

Career opportunities in insurance administration include areas as underwriting, claim adjusting, safety and fire protection engineering, auditing, public relations and advertising, accounting and statistical and actuarial functions.

The Kemper Foundation established its scholarship program on the BYU campus in James S. Kemper is former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States Ambassador to Brazil.

Editor:
It appears that Ken Holbert, as many others, misses the distinction between the stereotyped informer and the conscientious student who tries to uphold a Honor System.

In our childhood we learned as a "tattletale" was a despised person. Conditioned by this adam learned at our mother's we fall easy prey, as we become older and supposedly more sophisticated, to the under-world's receipts regarding the "stoolie" and the practice of "ratting." We often tend to ally ourselves with the law-breakers rather than betray what we naively believe is some sort of code of honor.

I am as if we feel ourselves as the proletarian arrayed to oppose the leadership oligarchy, either it be law enforcement officials, school or government administration or even teachers or parents.

I misunderstood Mr. Holbert, apologize, I, too, find repugnant type who blow the whistle at the betterment of themselves and think "he is so righteous in the eyes of the Almighty."

They are no more welcome in the dorms and cheaters on our "inform." However, of admittedly being informed I've encountered in sixteen years of life and Church school teaching, all but possibly one or two so far reasons that appeared be sincere.

too, wish we had "the kind perfection" that comes with honesty and faith in one another."

until we do, isn't it better for dents to supervise themselves or have it assumed that all are ethical evils-doers and must before be carefully policed?

Granted, there are areas in which, so far at least, the Honor system is impractical, but let's where we can. Just what did Mr. Holbert have the honor student do when he observes it? To remain silent not aids and abets, but jeopardizes the relative success of the best majority.

In conclusion, the student who "inform" on his cheating mate is also upholding his honor as reflected in the life he takes when he enrolls at BYU. By the way Mr. pert, you took it too, didn't?

You guessed it, not only did I have twenty four hard earned dollars stolen (part of which was to go toward the construction of the temple in Provo) but also the "regular" items, activity card, drivers license, etc., etc.

If I could get only my important cards back I'd feel grateful, however I'm not very hopeful. We've decided to turn this into a family affair, my younger brother had his wallet stolen only last semester while he was in the shower room at the fieldhouse.

Incidentally, the honor code is fine for BYU students but what do you do about high school and pre-high school students who run at will through the locker rooms? I mention this as a side note simply because there were a few younger fellows sitting in the room near the spot from which my wallet was taken.

PARADOX

Recent letters to the editor of the Universe reflect a major paradox of our day.

One aim of the paradox is the sad complaint about thievery, cheating, and other evil on the campus. The other is the complaint about students who would oppose such evil by "informing" fellow students, who would let themselves become "tattletales." How the thief must love being in a society in which reporting his thievery is frowned upon! It is high time that the two points of view are reconciled, to end the paradox behind which evil hides.

Most of us were taught in our childhood homes not to be bearers of pretty tales. People who derive their pleasure and themselves with derogatory gossip are among the earth's lowest scoundrels. Any sneak attack or devious belittling of a neighbor should rightfully be denounced as evil, unfair, and cowardly.

But such despicable conduct should not be confused, as is nearly always seems to be, with honest straightforward opposition to evil which includes exposing it for all to see and denounce.

As I hope for heaven, I hope people who see my error will tell me about it and then report it to others in a position to help me shape up if I don't have enough sense to do it on my own.

And I hope that I shall have the decency and courage to tell offenders whom I see that their offenses will send them to hell, or when I am not in a position to confront such people personally or where such confrontation will not be effective, that I will be kind enough to both the offender and his potential victim to report him to people in a position to put the needed pressure on him.

Tattletales? Absolutely not! My brother's keeper? Not his keeper, but his friend.

Opera Dress Is Ornate

Costumes for the opera to open Thursday are in the style of Napoleon's time. Verdi's "Masked Ball" will be elaborately staged at 8:15 p.m. in the de Jong Concert Hall of the Harris Fine Arts Center, when the curtain rises.

The production is conducted by Dr. Don L. Earl, director of Opera 100 individual masks have been designed and made for the opera scene—some of them embellished with sequins, feathers and fabric.

One of the most difficult costumes to design was the witch's outfit. This witch prophesies to the king that he will be killed and so she has some sort of clairvoyant ability. Not wanting an untraditional witch to have a traditional costume, Miss Warner was faced with the problem of making a costume to give off an aura of "mysticism" without losing the sense of reality.

Tickets for "Macbeth" by William Shakespeare go on sale Friday. The ticket office in the HFAC will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday-Friday. Students are especially invited to matinees Dec. 11 and 14 at 1 p.m. The play opens Dec. 8 and runs through Dec. 15.

Mezzo Soprano Sings Today In Salt Lake City Library

Mezzo-soprano Flora Nielsen performs at a Faculty Recital in all places, the Salt Lake City Library.

The concert, which is scheduled to begin at 8:00 p.m. on Nov. 28, will feature music which shows the mobility of Mrs. Nielsen's voice. She is currently a member of the Music Department.

The performance in the Salt Lake City Library promises to be both excellent music and an interesting setting.

Gallery Displays Plans

Currently on display in the Williamson Center Gallery is a collection of house plans and textile designs.

Jan Wright, a graduate of Utah State University with a Masters Degree from Iowa State, is exhibiting floor plans for a three-bedroom house. Displayed with the layout of each room is a sketch of the room plus samples of carpeting, upholstery, curtain material, and linoleum appropriate for that room.

Miss Wright has also done several silk screen wall hangings also on display.

It has been a superlative by the Mountain Cat grid; they entered the encounter at least 15 key men, and lost we—Joe James and Ken Callig the game via injuries. Spartans had played pretty defensive football prior to ay's laughter in Cougar Stadium, giving up a maximum of 34 to University of Pacific and ag Texas-El Paso and Wyoming 27 and 28 points, respect-as does that. Hudspeth's first year in his coaching job was scratch 3-6 mark in 1964, the Cougars eliminated out of the cellar BYU's first conference title, 12 season and amass a 28-10 record.

During their tenure, the grid never lost to Utah and San Jose State, two of the many schools who hold commanding margins of victory over BYU after years of competition.

The crowds that turn out to see them play is a tribute to the exciting brand of football played by the Cougars.

Another excellent freshman team and a fine group of sophomores lend credence to a continuation of the success of the past three years.

Most of a great defensive unit that held SJS to eight yards net last Saturday and was in the nation's top ten in rushing defense will return, along with many other standouts.

Two BYU students won matches recently in tune-up bouts in Elko, Nev., prior to competing in the Intermountain Golden Gloves Boxing Championships.

The Golden Gloves tournament, sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union, will be held Feb. 23 through Mar. 2.

Sterling Leeds and Jeff Bullock won their respective weight divisions against opponents from boxing clubs in Salt Lake City and Ogden.

Sponsored by Stan's Boxing Club of Orem, the two fighters were managed by Stan Chynoweth. A series of tune-up matches will continue in preparation for the Intermountain AAU tourney.

Eleven winners from the Intermountain area will travel to Las Vegas where they will join eleven man teams from Arizona, Colorado, Nevada and Utah in the regional championships Mar. 13-15.

Winners at the Las Vegas tourney will travel to Salt Lake City for the National AAU Golden Gloves Championships Mar. 26-23.

Friday will deadline the BYU Photo Studio and Banyan photography contest. All competing photographs of the campus landscape must be turned in to the Photo Studio, 118 Wilkinson Center by 5 p.m. Friday.

"The Photo Studio and Banyan staff are looking for unique pictures depicting the BYU campus activities," said Rodger Anderson, contest chairman.

FIRST PLACE

The first-place photo will win an $80 prize for its contributor. The picture will be used as the cover for the 1969-70 BYU catalog if the transparency meets the University Publications Office's specifications.

The contestant with the second-place photograph will receive $40 and his photo will appear in the 1967-68 Banyan.

The photographer of the third-prize winning photo will be awarded $20 and his picture will be hung in the Photo Studio.

ELIGIBILITY

All students, faculty and staff are eligible, except those working full-time in either Photo Services or a related area.

To qualify for the contest, the pictures must be color transparencies, and one quarter inch square and 120 film or larger. Pictures must have been taken no earlier than Dec. 1, 1968.

Negatives not included among the winners which can be used by BYU will be purchased for $10.

Army Unit To Be Installed

450 cadets at U. of I. is $388,000. Army ROTC offers two-year and four-year programs. Under the four-year course, any male student admitted to the university may enter the basic two-year course, after which a certain quota is chosen to continue for two more years.

Those who return from schools where no ROTC program is given or who neglect to enter in their first year may enter the accelerated two-year program. If selected by a board of officers, the two-year candidate goes first to a six-week summer camp where he is taught the basic program.

The first activity for BYU students in the Army program will be the summer camp during the summer of 1969. They will be signed up by Army officers who will train BYU cadets during the spring semester and the remainder of the autumn semester. These cadets then will become the cadre officers to staff the new unit of incoming students next year.

De Gaulle Wants Gold, Not Dollars

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles De Gaulle warned Monday that despite its "incredible power" the U.S. dollar faces devaluation unless Washington stops championing the present world monetary system.

At one of his rare news conferences, he reiterated his demand for a return to the gold standard dumped in the 1930's. He accompanied a bitter attack on the dollar with bid to enter the European common market.

A prediction that the province of Quebec eventually will become a sovereign state independent of Canada.

Slinging criticism of Israel for its role in the June Middle East war. He said the Vietnam conflict contributed to the Middle East conflict by increasing world tensions.

At the same time, in London,

GI's Push Back Red Assault In Third Attack At Key Bridge

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist forces attacking a bridge on South Vietnam's central highlands Monday destroyed one U.S. Army tank, damaged two others and wounded six Americans who repulsed the assault, reports from the front said. A misguided U.S. mortar attack in the highlands killed a young woman in a tribal village and seriously wounded 10 civilians, including a little girl.

The U.S. command issued revised casualty figures Monday, the 26th day of the bitter highlands campaign, the longest sustained battle of the war. The revised report placed North Vietnamese losses at 1,641 by body count. American casualties since Nov.

2 were reported as 287 killed and 1,000 wounded.

The attack on the highlands bridge was aimed at knocking out a supply span linking the province capital of Kontum with Dak To, the local point of the highlands fighting 220 miles north of Saigon.

Elements of the 4th Infantry division's 8th Armored Regiment crushed the attack—their most successful attempt by the Communists to destroy the bridge. Kontum, the biggest city on the highlands, is the site of a major American base for the troops at Dak To, 30 miles to the northwest near the place where the borders of South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos converge.

Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson attacked De Gaulle in some of the sharpest terms ever used by one allied leader of another. Pearson criticized De Gaulle for rejecting the Atlantic Alliance, for his super-nationalism, for his exclusion of Britain from the Common Market and for his meddling in Canadian affairs.

In the 90-minute news conference at the Elysee Palace, the 77-year-old De Gaulle said the dollar faced the same fate as Britain's debased pound.

But he vehemently denied reports that France is engaged in "war" to bring down the dollar.

De Gaulle lashed out at the multibillion dollar American industrial investment in Europe, changing what it is bringing in "inflated dollars" and is not helping Europe develop its own potential.

The General explained that U.S. investment in Europe "is just exactly the amount" of its annual foreign balance of payments deficit, and thus America was exporting its inflation abroad.

Then he declared: "It is in the interest of all, including the United States, that this be terminated. The upstarts who are being unleashed which have swept off the rate of the pound sterling might threaten the dollar and they might bring back the privileges of gold, which is an unchangeable, universally recognized value."
